2016 Golf Outing Huge Success

Thanks to all our sponsors and players who supported our annual Taylor Huth Memorial Golf outing on June 11, 2016, at Elks Run Golf Course. Together they helped us raise close to $50,000 and awarded 4 scholarships to young adults with epilepsy heading off to college. A special thanks goes out to our Title Sponsor, Dentsmart and our Premium Sponsor, Window World. We would also like to thank our shirt sponsors, Gem City Tire & Dayton Freight for providing all players with an awesome Footjoy shirt. Additionally, we would like to extend a big thank you to all sponsors and donors. Together you help us make a difference in the lives of people with epilepsy.

Hats off to our first place team of Stephen Torbeck, Dave Storer, Chris Larbes & Andrew Bell. They won the event a few years ago and were happy to regain this title. Second place goes to a new team in the event consisting of Brian Smith, Constance Smith, Billy Smith & Trevor Goddall. Thanks to Neusole Glassworks for providing beautiful, one of a kind trophies.

We hope you can join us for next year's event!

7 Things Everyone Needs to Know About Status Epilepticus

- 1. Status Epilepticus is defined as a seizure lasting longer than 5 minutes, or two or more seizures happening without improvement in between.
- 2. Status Epilepticus is a true emergency. Many other body systems can be involved, especially if the seizure includes generalized tonic-clonic activity. Body metabolism can be altered, heart rhythms can change, and even breathing can be effected.
- 3. If a seizure lasts longer than 10 minutes it is not likely to stop on its own. Most seizures last less than 2 or 3 minutes. Although everyone is unique, studies have shown that if a seizure lasts longer than 10 minutes, medicines are usually needed to stop the seizure.
- 4. If Status Epilepticus is treated earlier, it is easier to stop. Studies have shown that the sooner treatment of status epilepticus is started, the more likely the prolonged seizure will respond to medication.
- 5. There is a well-defined treatment plan for Status Epilepticus. In 2016, the American Epilepsy Society published guidelines on the treatment of status epilepticus.
- 6. Not all Status Epilepticus is the same. Just as everyone's seizures are unique, so is status epilepticus.
- 7. Tell your doctor if you or your loved one with epilepsy has ever had Status Epilepticus, or if you are concerned that this may occur. Creating a plan to treat breakthrough seizures or cluster seizures is an important part of epilepsy management. Things to discuss could include when to call for emergency help, when to give a rescue medication, and how to stay safe if a seizure occurs.

Action Steps

Know what type of seizures you have. Tell your health care team if you've ever had status or cluster seizures. Update your seizure response plan each year or whenever you have a change in medicines. If you don't have a seizure response plan, download a form from our Toolbox, fill out as much as you can, and take it to your next appointment with your epilepsy doctor or nurse. If you have a My Seizure Diary account, you can make one online and update it easily!

Epilepsy Foundation Unveils New Talk About It! Site

If you have not checked it out already, go to www.talkaboutit.org to see a great new site aimed at educating the general public about epilepsy. Put together by Greg Grunberg, Hollywood actor and parent of a child with epilepsy, he enlists the help of fellow actors to share a very informative and engaging message about epilepsy. Please share this site with your family and friends.

Local Companies Continue to Share their Time, Talent & Resources

Every year we are blessed to work with a number of companies who take time out of their busy schedules to support the work of our agency. This spring we were fortunate to work with three of these companies. In May staff from UC Clermont came out to Sycamore Vista to paint, landscape and generally beautify the home. Also in May, Liberty Mutual came out for their 7th consecutive year to paint, do general construction at Benton Home and do landscaping. They left the home looking great for the springtime. In June a group of engineers from GE came out to Benton Home to lend their expertise in building a covered porch at our Day Program, excavating for a new patio and sidewalk and painting to give the home a fresh new look. This is GE's 6th year of service and we are extremely grateful for their support.

In the fall we look forward to working with GE again, along with ITW Air Management and others. If your company would like to volunteer, please call our office.

Thank You!

Camping Programs Expand in 2016

We are happy to share that we have been able to touch the lives of more children, families and adults at our camps this year because of the generous support of both individuals and corporate sponsors. In addition to our traditional spring and fall weekend camps and our annual summer camp; we have hosted a family day camp in the Columbus area for children who have had surgery or are looking at this as an option for treatment. We would like to thank in a special way the neurology team at Nationwide Children's for partnering with us on this endeavor. In June we hosted a day camp in Northern Columbus at Shane Center. Here participants rode horses daily and took part in other horse related activities. This fall we look forward to hosting a weekend camp for adults with epilepsy from September 9-11. We have a few spots available for this camp to be at Lutheran Memorial Camp, north of Columbus.

Thanks again to the many people and companies who support our camp program!

To register for any of these camps or for more information call (877) 804-2241 or email mfindley@epilepsy-ohio.org.

Mason Half Marathon to Move to the Mason Community Center

We are happy to share that our Mason Half Marathon and 5K on Sunday, November 6th will be held at the Mason Community Center. The Community Center has been a long time supporter of the event, but this is the first year we will be hosting the registration, start and finish at the Center. The staff has been very gracious in opening up their facilities to us and we believe this will help us expand and grow the event. Register early for the event online at our website at www.epilepsy-ohio.org.

Light My Fire

When you get out of the bed in the morning and brush your teeth, do you think about how easy that was for you? As you drive to work and pull an eight-hour shift, have you ever thought to yourself, "Wow I am blessed"? My name is Kayla, and I am a PCA at Cincinnati Children's. In 2013, I started volunteering at a camp for kids with Epilepsy, called Camp Flame Catcher.

The average incidence of epilepsy each year in the U. S is estimated at 150,000 or 48 for every 100,000 people.

As a child, being "different" can change your life. You learn to evaluate your surroundings to make sure people won't stare or laugh at you. You fear sleepovers with your friends because they are afraid of your condition.

As a parent to a child with Epilepsy you also fear that nobody can take care of your child when they are away from you. You want so badly for your child to feel like part of the group. To be a "normal" child.

Camp Flame Catcher allows all those things to happen. The camp is staffed with nurses, counselors, and volunteers like me. We are trained to keep the children safe, make sure they get all their medicine, but most importantly to allow them to enjoy their camp experience. The camp offers rock climbing, horse back riding, as well as many other activities these kids otherwise would not be able to participate in. The best part of camp is: everyone has Epilepsy, and for just a moment in time, these kids can let down their guards, and feel safe, loved, and carefree! And most importantly, Camp Flame Catcher offers them friendships that last a lifetime!

After volunteering at the camp I found myself humbled. I watched many kids struggle to do things you and I do every day without thought. One of the teens has multiple seizures a day, and had seven to eight seizures while trying to reach the top of the rock climbing wall. Well, guess what? She made it to the top! These kids teach you to see the world in a whole new light. They are much braver than we are; they persevere, and find strength when many of us would give up.

That first camp changed my life, and I am asking you to help me continue changing these kids' lives. These families spend countless hours at hospitals and doctors visits, they spend every penny on medicine to try to control this disorder. Some of the families can't afford to give their kids this amazing gift.

So what do you do when you have a problem? You find a solution. I started a fundraiser event called Light My Fire. This year will be our third year doing this; all the money raised goes directly to the camp to cover tuition for families unable to provide the funds.

My mission: To shine light on Epilepsy and provide a way to see children smile through their fight! With your help we can change the way a child experiences life, even for a day. With your donation you can help me achieve this.

Come enjoy food, drinks, music, dancing, a silent auction, a photo booth and more at the third annual

Light My Fire Benefit!

Proceeds provide camp scholarships to help parents send their children with epilepsy to Camp Flame Catcher.

Teens Speak Up!

The Epilepsy Foundation's annual Public Policy Institute and Teens Speak Up! Conference was held April 17-19 in Washington DC. Brought together were 46 teens with epilepsy, their parents, and affiliates from across the county who united for a day and half of learning and advocacy training that culminated with a Hill day on April 19. Families and affiliates shared their personal stories and advocated in support of the Epilepsy Foundation's legislative goals in more than 220 Congressional visits.

This year we focused on federal epilepsy program funding, improving access to cannabis for research and individuals in states with medical cannabis programs, and creating a nationwide system to gather data on neurological conditions and diseases.

Our local representatives to DC this year included Andrew Goodell (Athens, Ohio), Mason Hicks (Letart, West Virginia), and Jack Simone (Pickerington, Ohio).
